CURIOSITY	The name Seirass derives from whey: it is in fact a ricotta produced with cow's milk whey to which sheep's milk is added. Even today this typical Piedmontese product is sold in the characteristic gauze packages, with a conical shape, in which the curd flakes are drained. The Seirass is produced in two versions, one fresher and more humid (the one we propose), the other drier seasoned under the hay and which, for this very reason, is called Seirass del Fen
SUGGESTIONS	The traditional and basic ingredient in Italian ravioli and panzerotti. Excellent as ingredient in "cannelloni" with spinach. Used as unique ingredient in both food and patisserie recipes
